October 15th is the feast day of St. Theresa of Avila. St. Theresa lived a very mischievous, troublesome early life. Considered troublesome, her father sent Theresa to a convent. Theresa was well-liked and agreed to go, mostly because she thought the convent was less strict. St. Theresa became stronger in her belief near the age of 40. She became highly disliked among other orders for she wished to create a convent that followed the classic life of poverty. She is the patron saint of headache sufferers, and Spanish Catholic writers.

Answer to last week's question: 'signum' means 'sign'.
