

1. What Sunday in Ordinary time is it?
2. What liturgical season begins next week? Do you see any signs around your church?
3. What kind of story is Jesus telling today?
4. What do you think Jesus means when he talks about having splinters and wooden beams in our eyes?
5. Where do we learn that a person stores their goodness?
6. This week how will you spread your goodness? List three ways you'll lend a hand, show someone you care or do a good deed.

Today is the feast day of Saint Katherine Drexel. Katherine was born in Pennsylvania in 1858 to wealthy parents. Her family's home was always open to helping others, teaching Katherine that love for thy neighbor could have great impact on the lives of the less fortunate. She eventually became a missionary and donated her share of the family's money to these causes, setting out to help African-Americans and Native Americans. Katherine traveled all around, opening schools and funding projects that would bring people together. Her goal was for all people to know unity under God.

1. Today is the _____ Sunday of Ordinary Time.
2. Next week this season of the Church's calendar begins.
a) Advent b) Christmas c) Lent d) Ordinary Time
3. Today, Jesus tells his disciples a _____.
joke parable vision dream
4. What happens when you remove the wooden beam from your own eye?
a) a party b) you see clearly c) nothing
5. List three things you can do this week to spread goodness:

Today is the feast day of Saint Katherine Drexel. Katherine was born in Pennsylvania in 1858 to wealthy parents. Her family's home was always open to helping others, teaching Katherine that love for thy neighbor could have great impact on the lives of the less fortunate. She eventually became a missionary. Katherine traveled all around, opening schools and funding projects that would bring people together. Her goal was for all people to know unity under God.